

Jelly Roll Jargon

1. Jelly Thunder- the noise you hear when your jelly roll display collapses and all the Jelly Rolls on it hit the floor of your quilt shop.
2. Jelly Loaner -when you swipe a few stray Jelly Roll Strips from your neighbor's sewing area while at quilt retreat (oh if only Covid 19 were history and we could be at quilt retreats again. We will wait as patiently as we can).
3. Jelly Craze -the latest greatest, gotta have it, gotta make it sewing project made from a jelly roll.
4. Jelly Stealth -when newly purchased Jelly Rolls are brought into your household in alternate packaging (i.e. grocery store bag, gym bag). This facilitates the idea that your new Jelly Rolls will be entering the house undetected. 😊
5. Jelly Pet -This is a verb. Definition: that most satisfying of gestures, running your fingers over the tightly rolled, pinked edges of an unopened jelly roll.
6. Jelly Jealousy-That moment when your quilty friends share their news of the purchase of a brand-new Jelly Roll and they forgot to tell you they went on a Jelly CAT without you. See #8
7. Jelly Reveal-That moment when you remove the ribbon from your Jelly Roll and unroll it. *please note that it is completely normal to put this off indefinitely so that you can repeatedly enjoy the jelly roll in it's original packaged state. *
8. Jelly CAT- Jelly Roll Commerce and Acquisition Trip. An outing wherein the participants travel to seek out and purchase a Jelly Roll.
9. Jelly Fait Accompli -the idea that a Jelly Roll Quilt can be made so quickly, it is often finished before anyone knew you even started a quilt.
10. Jelly Snack- What one eats while picking out a new Jelly Roll Project to make. What is your favorite snack been in 2020?
