- Use a lint brush or roller over the raw-edge sides of the Jelly Roll before unwrapping it to minimize the fluffy lint that will occur.
- Iron the strips flat before sewing - especially the fold.
- Use a bit of steam - Steam helps realign the fibers, and they will relax and lose the curl that they have after having been rolled so tightly.
- Save leftover Jelly Roll strips for scrappy binding and string quilts.
- Seam allowance - pick a point where you're going to line up the pinked edge of the jelly roll strip and stay consistent. Measure the width of your strip sets before you cross-cut strips, squares, sashings or other adjoining pieces.
